

The future and What's to come

During this semester, I have a course called Business English Writing. We used a few weeks to create our own resume , including hobbies, characteristics and skills. Through this process, I know the reason why we have to modify our resume regularly. Based on the question we discussed for this topic "What do you REALLY want?" The question is really complicated,since every phase of life has a different dream to pursue. For me, I keep asking myself "What kind of person should I want to be ?" Every week I feel I am in a different situation. Sometimes I feel tired, energetic or excited. Also, I remembered that we discussed a question "Do you agree entering the college makes our dreams dead ?" I think some students don't really understand what the subject really teaches us,so they discover it isn't the subject they want to study. Based on this question, I have a different opinion. Entering the college offers me an opportunity to explore more about this subject. For instance, I know we have to study accounting, statistics and economics for business management,but we don't know details.Students in business management have to study accounting in first grade and it is totally different from what I think of accounting. The stress it brings can still afford it.

In addition, I think most college students have more time to do what they want. Using this time to fulfill our dreams is the best way to know what you/I really want and what you/I should be.

Nice job. this is a complicated question. I really appreciate that you are applying what we discuss on other contexts.
